"Success is not final; failure is not fatal: it is the courage to continue that counts."

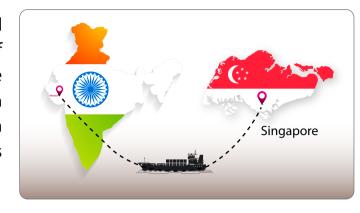

-Winston Churchil

Life is a secret story of uncertainties. Risk is the inevitable factor in life which results into either success or failure that has to be admitted by everyone. Every mind has a predetermined thought of winning. An event of failure may make us go different. But remember that a milestone of failure isn't the matter that destroys our life for good, but our inability to accept, handle and convert that failure into a mind blowing success. Let's all have the courage to continue our voyage successfully by handling our present performance elegantly.
