

Satisfaction, we ought to have at present, is derived when our desires, expectations and goals get identified with the reality of day-to-day life. If acceptance of reality through a positive approach governs us, we can, now and here, enjoy satisfaction in its fullness along with joy and bliss. Satisfaction doesn't become a barrier for further progress, but it helps one to achieve better and higher ends with absolute confirmation and determination. Sheetal comrades march ahead with such confirmation and determination.
